GRAYLING HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

BATTLE OF THE ELECTION BALLOTS

COOLIDGE RUNS STRONG IN COUNTY.

Grayling Republicans Win All But 2 Offices.

The voting in general throughout the county was large at last Monday's election. Grayling township turned out 462 votes against 484 last year, which however was considered a big vote. Coolidge was given nearly two votes to Johnson's one in the county.

Even Grayling, which gave Johnson a majority of .109 over General Wood four years ago, was strong for Coolidge.

It is estimated that Coolidge's vote will be about 290 and Johnson's 180 in the county.

For Democratic president Ferris had a majority of about fifty over Ford, also throughout the state Ford ran ahead of Senator Ferris.

South Branch Township.

South Branch township presented two tickets, Republican and Union, the results being very close. Oliver B. Scott, Republican, for supervisor, was elected over Joseph J. Royce by 41 to 38 votes. The voting on the entire ticket was about equally close, the Republicans winning all offices except that of member of board of review, which went to Boyd J. Funchy by a majority of three. Seventy-nine ballots were cast.

This township gave Coolidge 25, and Johnson and Simpson each one. Ferris received 13 and Henry Ford 2.

Beaver Creek Township.

William Ferguson, republican, who has been clerk of the township for several years, was elected supervisor over Alonso D. Kile by a vote of 59 to 27. The Republicans won all offices except those of highway commissioner and member board of review.

For highway commissioner Frank L. Milne, union, defeated Alton Brott, republican 54 to 32. Frank Love, union, defeated John R. Skingley, republican, for member board of review, 43 to 38.

This township also gave Coolidge a good majority. The vote was as follows: Republican—Coolidge 29, John-ly on a lettuce leaf.

Lovells Township.

There was no contest in this township, the Union ticket being the only one in the field. James E. Kellogg was returned as supervisor, Clerk, L. P. McCray; treasurer, John Surday; highway commissioner, C. Stillwagon.

Lovells gave Coolidge 8 votes and Johnson 3 in the republican primaries. In the Democratic primaries Ford received four and Ferris two.

Frederic Township.

In Frederic township there was but one ticket—Republican and all candidates were elected except treasurer, for which office the regular candidate Bernard Calsham was tied by C. S. Barber, running on slips. Barber says he will ask for recount.

The vote on the primary candidates has not been reported from this township and we are unable to give them.

Maple Forest Township.

The voters of Maple Forest township eclipsed, apparently, all former elections when the Unionists swept the Republicans all out of office at one swipe. Every Republican was defeated.

This includes William Feldhausen, who for the past several years has been the supervisor of that township, and a mighty able representative too. He was defeated by Rufus Edmunds. The latter has made several attempts to get elected to that office and has finally succeeded.

The votes were very close, Edmunds having only five majority. Both men are well liked in their home community where each is well known. While we can truthfully say that Maple Forest has lost a good supervisor, we believe Mr. Edmunds will also render good service in that office.

We have no definite figures on the primary election; it is reported that Johnson for president received a majority of the votes.

Grayling Township.

462 votes were cast in Grayling Township Monday, which is 22 less than last year. The entire republican ticket was elected except clerk and treasurer, Clarence Brown, republican, was defeated for clerk. Alfred Hanson, Democrat by a vote of 277 to 174. It is generally considered that Brown made a most wonderful campaign when it is known that his opponent is one of the best liked young men in Grayling. Besides this he is the present clerk and his work has been exceptionally competent; and he is an ex-service man and a member of the American Legion.

For treasurer Holger F. Peterson, republican and ex-postmaster, was defeated by Chas. O. McCullough, democrat by a vote of 346 to 104.

Grayling is to have a new supervisor in the person of Edward S. Houghton, who will succeed Melvin A. Bates, who retires to act as postmaster. Mr. Houghton is fully competent to fulfill the important duties of this office. For two terms he served as county treasurer. He was also superintendent of road construction most of the time during which trunk line M14 was built thru the county. He is an experienced surveying engineer, and is well acquainted with land values in the township.

Following is a tabulated account of how Grayling voted:

Supervisor—Edward S. Houghton, r—245-42 Walmer Jorgenson, d—203.

Clerk—Clarence Brown, r—174. Alfred Hanson, d—277-103.

Treasurer—Holger F. Peterson, r—101. Charles O. McCullough, d—346-245.

WOMAN DID WORK OF TWO HORSES.

An extension agent in Virginia called on the specialist in rural engineering for advice in the case of a woman who wished to install running water in her home. A report received by the United States Department of Agriculture states that after a survey of the premises it was found that the housewife was walking 140 miles per year and expending enough energy in lifting water to do the work of two horses in plowing 11 acres of land. A small hydraulic ram, overhead storage, kitchen sink and waste pipe were purchased for $49, which put running water into the kitchen.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN, APRIL 10, 1924

COOLIDGE WINS IN MICHIGAN PRIMARY

PRESIDENT CARRIES STATE BY COMFORTABLE MAJORITY OVER JOHNSON.

VOTE WAS EXCEEDINGLY LIGHT

Inclement Weather and Unpassable Roads Held Vote to Mere Shadow of Normal Strength.

Detroit—Returns from the Michigan presidential primary election gave Calvin Coolidge the victory over his principal rival, Hiram Johnson, by a comfortable majority. The vote was very light throughout the entire state.

On the democratic ticket, Henry Ford and Woodbridge N. Ferris ran neck-and-neck for the Democratic endorsement, even though neither is an avowed presidential candidate and the absence of any real contender's name from the ballot virtually will amount to leaving the Democratic delegation to the national convention uninstructed.

James E. Davidson, of Bay City, was re-elected Republican national committeeman from Michigan with a majority over Paul Martin of Battle Creek, former state commander of the American Legion and Frank A. Rasch of Detroit, in third place. For the Democratic committee membership State Chairman William A. Comstock was an easy winner.

One of the interesting features of the election was the light Democratic vote cast. Although Ferris, running for senator, carried Michigan in the last general election, his party's total vote was only about one-sixth of that cast by the majority party.

Two-Thirds of Voters Stay Home

The total vote was little more than a shadow of the state's total voting strength.

Inclement weather, which was general throughout Michigan, discouraged voting and left unpassable roads in the farm districts. There was a marked public indifference. Less than 300,000 went to the polls of the more than 1,000,000 registered.

Flint was an exception to the indifference elsewhere in the state. A bitterly contested battle between well-organized political factions over a $1,000,000 bond issue for a new court house aroused much interest and produced a vote approaching normal.

Every question submitted to the Detroit voters at the primary met with overwhelming approval. The two charters amendments which provide for doubling the present pension scale to the widows and orphans of policemen and men killed while on duty met with very little opposition. They increase the pensions to widows from $60 to $100 per month and to orphans from $10 to $20 per month.

These amendments were the chief topic of discussion during the entire campaign, even overshadowing the issues involved in the presidential campaign.

Detroit Increases Area.

The vote of the people on Monday also will add materially to the area of Detroit, portions of Gratiot and Hamtramck being annexed. Only last fall the people voted to take in about 14 square miles by annexation of a portion of Redford and a portion of Greenfield township.

Jackson voted on a $1,000,000 sewer bond issue. Kalamazoo on a municipal light distribution plan, Battle Creek on a $100,000 grade separation project and on the question of adopting Eastern time; Owosso had a hot local contest for the office of public improvement commissioner and a $30,000 bond issue for installing a platoon system in its fire department; Ann Arbor passed on several charter amendments and bond issues; Pontiac on a $90,000 bond issue for city improvements and a one-cent tax for a county infirmary, and Monroe on annexations which would double the city's area, also on a $200,000 bond issue for a new county building.

DOBRAH FLAYS G.O.P. AND DEMS.

Says Big Campaign Contributions Corrupt Both Old Parties.

Washington—So long as the great political parties of the nation continue to accept huge campaign contributions from those interested in legislation and federal administration America will have "sinister, corrupt, and controlled government." Senator William A. Borah, of Idaho, declared in an address to the students' conference on citizenship and law observance here.

Such contributions "lead to that sinister and subtle influence which does more to break down representative government than any specific instance of open bribe," he declared adding that the open bribe follows inevitably as a result of the practice.

Borah lashed the Democratic and Republican parties for a "fictitious truce" not to expose or criticize the campaign contribution bill, declared the senate scandal investigations have uncovered not only rotteness but the high purpose and incorrigible patriotism of the American people.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE REPORT FOR MARCH.

(By Margaret Squires)

The past four weeks have been more or less busy with the new outbreak of scarlet fever but the health officer reports that the cases are now decreasing.

Besides this the hot lunch has gone on with somewhere about 20 members all the month. This small group has worked very well and has been quite comfortably handled. The finances have been a little harder to manage as about half, and part of the time, more than half, have had no money, but owing to donations of potatoes and other things and money we have received (by careful planning) with the $2 loaned us at the beginning, and intend to return it for starting again next year. We will not continue the hot lunch after vacation.

We had a special dinner on Friday, prepared by the Domestic Science class. Mr. Smith and Mr. Bailey spoke to the children. Mr. Smith told them, since they had been fed and taught they should show their appreciation by following instructions about clean hands etc. Mr. Bailey talked of garden making and showed pictures of fruit, vegetables and flowers that they could raise this summer. The children shouted with enthusiasm over the beautiful strawberries and other things.

Plans have also been laid to furnish milk at school beginning with the spring term. The weighing and measuring of all the children has been completed. The health center is not yet open owing to illness of those in charge of getting it ready but we hope to be using it soon.

The "beauty parlor" is interesting to the girls and they are asking how soon it will be open. The work of the beauty parlor has already begun at my office only they do not know it might as well be called a personal hygiene or good health parlor, but would not attract the girls at all in that case.

I have found several suspicious cases, and I have a list of 69 children who have had teeth and tonsil defects corrected for from two to four years. I intend to begin at once work in that way.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK PROCLAIMED BY PRESIDENT

Forest protection week for 1924 has been designated by President Coolidge for April 21-27, inclusive, announces the Forest Service, United States department of agriculture.

In his proclamation, President Coolidge calls attention to the appalling losses that occur each year from forest fires, and urges all citizens, either in association or as individuals, to protect all wooded areas from fire.

Governors of many States will issue proclamations supplementing the one issued by the President, and Arbor Day in several States will be observed during forest protection week.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and W. B. Greeley, chief of the forest service, have many times emphasized the importance of preventing forest fires, about 36,000 of which sweep 11,000,000 acres of land.

THE RED LOCK

A Tale of the Flatwoods

"Let y'u alone—after y'u bungled it the way y'u did—with fifty pistols in the air—and you drink—h—!" This was my lay, anyhow, and a one-man job, only you and Loge had t' mess in—and now, with y'u fog tongues and squirrel whisky, y'u've Jim'd it."

"Mess in!" The shadow among the gauded roots raised a trifle. "Who hid y'u an nursery y'u back well again after that marshal dern' high croaked y'u last winter? Mess in!"

The other strode a hard step nearer; apparently realized that any sort of an outbreak just there and then might prove dangerous, finally turned and stalked away up the yard.

The parlor door opened, closed. Black Bogus half rose, slipped away up the path—and the woodsman was alone with the voice of the night.

Counterfeiter—the mystery was cleared. Simon Colin—money-lender;

Jack had only time to note these particular when a rabble of people from the village, alarmed by Texie's screams, came running up the yard and stormed into the house. A moment later Jerry Brown, the town marshal, burst in and took charge—and the peaceful cottage passed into the hands of the law.

The house was cleared of all but the preacher, the woodsman and two or three women; a messenger sent to the city for the coroner, and a deputy put on guard at the door pending his arrival.

Seventy years ago the coroner's office was in the saddle, the coroner, then as now, always a physician, usually of the "saddle-horse" type in race of men staunch and true; who, next to the minister and teacher, did most to nurse the young republic to manhood.

Early the next morning the coroner arrived. After a short consultation with Jerry Brown, he entered the room where the tragedy occurred and began his inquest.

Apart from the disarranged furniture, the torn garment, the scratches on the face, there was little evidence, and no clue whatever to the person or persons with whom the old man had waged his fatal battle in the dark. Not a cent of money, or any article of value, had been taken. The safe was still locked, apparently just as it had been left the day before.

Texie testified that she had heard a struggle, and words strained and muffled and indistinct, but she immediately sprang out of bed and ran into the unbroken gloom, then they lighted a candle and hurried downstairs—that there was no one in the room except her father and he lay back across the chair arm.

Her voice choked into silence. "Were the doors all closed?" "All but the door of the sitting-room—it was open little bit."

"Was it closed when you went to bed?"

"I suppose so—but never failed to shut and lock it."

"Was there more than one key to the door?"

"No, only one."

"Where was it kept?"

"Hanging behind the door."

"Marshal," directed the coroner, "will you see if that key is still hanging there?"

The marshal peeped behind the door.

"Yes, it's there yet, Your Honor," he answered.

The coroner relaxed his grip severely—a stroke to the core—when the ripe instant came—and devil take the chips, was his way. A bold thought took shape in his innards—but the ripe instant had not yet come. Another night would bring it, with the banker warned and both of them on guard.

A thought of the concealed houseboat, with the simply heathenish oil stains, after deck, crossed him; and assumed a new significance. But one false move and even that would appear—and they had their eyes on him.

But with all the caution of his woodcraft, Jack Warhope was not a man to plan and scheme. He came of other stock than that. A stroke to the core—when the ripe instant came—and devil take the chips, was his way. A bold thought took shape in his innards—but the ripe instant had not yet come. Another night would bring it, with the banker warned and both of them on guard.

And then came the preacher. In his peevish, jerky way, he testified that he was a heavy sleeper, that he had heard nothing till Miss Texie screamed—but he had, then hastily thrown on the few articles of dress necessary to make himself presentable before ladies—but he had opened his door and hurried across the parlor, across the sitting-room and into the office, where he was horrified to find his dear friend dead; and the room in its present disarray.

"Is it true that you carry a key to the parlor door?"

"It is. Brother Colin placed it at my disposal the evening I came."

"Where is it?"

"Here."

He drew it forth and held it toward the coroner, who waved it restlessly.

"Did you lock the parlor door last night?"

"I did."

"You're excused."

The coroner looked in his note-book, glanced into the corner of the room where Jack Warhope stood near Texie's chair and motioned with his hand. The woodsman approached the table.

"What do you know of this case?"

In his slow, careful way the woodsman told what he had heard and seen, from the moment of Texie's scream to the arrival of Jerry Brown. "What was you doin' up so late?"

The question probed deep. Things would have happened had he answered it—and they would have happened

PORCELAIN MADE FOR KINGS' USE

Chinaware Was So Beautiful That It Was Never Exported, but Was Reserved for Emperors.

The Arabs mentioned porcelain factories and stores in their writings about 800 A. D. The Arabian geographer, Mohammed el-Brifi, who lived in Sicily at the court of Roger II, published, about 1164, a geographic work in which he told of the town of Djankow, where "Chinese glass" was made. He added that there was "no finer and more esteemed porcelain in Djankow than that of a potmaker or a pot de signer." Toward the middle of the Fourteenth century, Ibn Battuta, the Arabian traveler, described Chinese ceramic as the most beautiful in the world. The Chinese manufactured dishes and porcelain ware for a very long time. In the history of the great Chinese empire one reads that only certain towns and villages went in for porcelain industry. The finest chinaware was made in the province of Szechuan. It was so beautiful and so much like the finest crystal that it never was exported, but was exclusively reserved for the use of the Chinese emperors.

Jack found the dead man still warm.

MISTRESS SPRINGTIME

Mistress Springtime was wandering everywhere, as is her way.

"Hello, Red Alders," she said to some trees by that family name. They looked like birch trees and their bark was gray, while their twigs were of a brownish red color.

Then she wandered away from the Red Alders and came a little further to the north and said:

"Ah, my lovely Dogwood! Blossoms, I greet you. You are so lovely. I love your wide-open faces and your open way of all coming out to greet me."

Then she saw some May apple flowers, with their big, umbrella-shaped leaves. "I always call you Wild Lemon flowers," she said, "for I called you that long ago, and I greet you, too, it's such a joy to see you on the hillsides around."

Then she waded to the purple blossoms of the Lupine flowers. "I think your name is so interesting," she said. "I laugh as I think of the old botanists, people who know about flowers, who named you that because they said you simply deserved the goodness of the earth, and used up so much good soil." Lupine, they said, was a name which came from the word Lupus, which was a name meaning wolf.

And the blossoms smiled at Mistress Springtime, but they did not mind much what their name was, and as for knowing languages and different words well, that was too much for them!

Then she went to speak to the Wild Geranium flowers which were growing along a wood road.

But she stopped for quite a time with the Wild Honeysuckle, for sometimes, she said, she thought her favorite flower of all was the wild honeysuckle.

"Your beautiful, sweet-scented and your deep, pink blossoms are so

It seemed, too, as if Charles Norman were almost smiling in his sleep at the thought, and with a wave of her beautiful hand, Mistress Springtime was off again. But not before she had thrown a kiss to Charles Norman and to his soft pink toy-rabbit with the pink eyes and ears.

Attorneys E. M. Harris and James B. Ross of West Branch and W. G. Smith, newly appointed prosecuting attorney of Roscommon County to succeed Attorney Hiram R. Smith, were in the city this week in attendance at circuit court.

Last Saturday was Charles Wilbur's birthday and a number of his neighbors and friends went to his home giving him an agreeable surprise. There were about thirty present and progressive pedro was played. Charlie was very happy over the surprise given him. A pot luck lunch completed a pleasant evening.

The O. E. S. spent a pleasant afternoon at the Masonic and O. E. S. rooms, Thursday. The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Augusta Smith of Saginaw, Mrs. Anna Hodge of California and Miss Clara Nelson of Royal Oak who are all O. E. S. members and who were visiting in Grayling. The afternoon was spent in a social way and refreshments were served.

Mrs. McLean organized a little of her girl friends at her home Tuesday afternoon in honor of her 11th birthday. A very jolly time was had playing games and in amusement of various kinds. At the birthday lunch the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in both the favors and refreshments. In the evening Allan Martin invited in several of his friends to spend the evening.

A large number were attracted to Frank Tetu's place of business last Friday evening to hear a special program over radio. Frank had arranged a loud speaking megaphone over the door way of his garage so that the musical part of the program was heard for blocks. The most of the program was broadcast from Pittsburgh, Boston, Chicago and Springfield, O., and was wonderful.

Grayling friends of Thomas Oliver of Decatur, Ill., a former resident of Grayling, will be pleased to know that he has been put on the pension roll of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Oliver has been in the railroad service 64 years, altho only being in the employ of the Pennsylvania system for 23 years and in the capacity of yardmaster. About a year ago while at work in the Decatur yards he had the misfortune to lose a leg when run over by a stock car being switched in the yard. While temporarily a man of Mr. Oliver's years of service would not come under the pension rule, the fact that he was incapacitated by having lost his leg makes his retirement necessary.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Oliver was employed as trainmaster of the M. C. R. R. in Grayling. He was the wife of the late Mrs. Anna Oliver, and is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Rebecca Wright of this city.

CAN'T PREDICT WEATHER MORE THAN WEEK IN ADVANCE.

The Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture is frequently asked how far in advance weather conditions may be reliably foretold. It is generally known among meteorologists that the forecasting of weather for more than a few days in advance is attended by great uncertainty, and for this reason no national weather service in any country attempts detailed forecasts of the weather for more than a week in advance. Beyond a week the forecasting of weather is attempted without a reliable and scientific basis therefore.

Decrees were granted in the cases of Ollie M. McLeod, vs. Kenneth McLeod, divorce; Elsie Pettit vs. John W. Pettit, divorce; and Martha A. Lyons vs. Edward L. Lyons, divorce.

Also a decree was granted the State in the matter of the petition of the auditor general for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon for the year 1922, and previous years.

The following article appeared in last week's issue of the Leaper County Press. "Monsignor P. R. Dunigan, former popular priest, was quite seriously injured by a fall from his horse at Flint Friday afternoon. Apparently a broken saddle girth caused the accident." Msgr. Dunigan was found unconscious on the road and could remember little of the mishap except that he was thrown off the horse. He suffered a deep cut on his head and it was at first feared that complications might set in, but physicians dispelled that fear after the first 24 hours had passed. He is much improved now and will suffer no permanent ill effects from the accident.

Gone to his cottage on the AuSable river last Friday, James O. Curwood of Owosso was somewhat surprised when he opened the door to find the rooms in a rather upset condition. He and a party of friends were at the cottage during the early part of the winter but when they left things were in a tidy condition. Indications are that someone held a "real" party during his absence.

Several empty bottles containing Canadian wet goods were left on the table; the dry wood in the kitchen burned up; dishes left unwashed and broken, the player piano broken, and things in general mussed up. Now the question is "who held the party?"

Michigan Happenings

Demand for rural teachers for next year exceeds the present supply at the Michigan State Normal college at Pellon. Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, head of the rural education department, received a letter recently from the superintendent of schools of Kanawha county, W. Va., stating that that system would be glad to use all the graduates of the Normal college this year. West Virginia alone asks for 150 rural teachers. The total number of students in the rural education department, including 22 specializing in rural leadership, is less than 100.

Proof of publication of the legal notices of the judgment of ouster issued against the House of David has been filed by the state with the secretary of state's department at Lansing and the clerk of the Ingham county circuit court. This step paves the way for the filing of a petition by the state attorney general's department, asking for appointment of a receiver for the Benton Harbor colony. The big legal fight to oust the colony from Michigan then will be under way, according to O. L. Smith, assistant attorney general.

Appeal to United States Court against the Treasury Department ruling that employees of the City of Detroit Department of Street Railways are liable for the payment of an income tax is to be taken on behalf of the city. An opinion was given the city two months ago to the effect that employees of the D. S. R. the latter being a self-supporting utility, are liable to payment of the Federal income tax. It was against this ruling that the city sought an appeal before the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the same being denied.

Drastic action against suburban bus operators violating the state bus weight limitation was taken last week when Grand Rapids deputy sheriffs stopped buses and compelled several of the passengers to walk to their destinations or to interurban stations. Operators have threatened to discontinue service because of the enforcement of the ruling which limits some large buses to 19 passengers and others to only five or six.

Thereafter, the minimum bail for prisoners brought before J. Stanley Hurd, United States Commissioner at Detroit, will be $2,000. In making Camp at Camp Custer in July, or this announcement Mr. Hurd said the step was necessitated by the frequency with which Federal prisoners overcame the snake when he rushed particularly or the bus drivers in an attempt to save valuable. Abraham Tuckerman, 75 years old, a pioneer farmer, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home near Manton. His wife witnessed the tragedy but was unable to render assistance.

Clifford W. Ham, city manager of Gladstone, Mich., and former Pontiac city clerk, has been appointed city manager of Pontiac at a salary of $6,500 a year. His appointment was made by the city commission from a list of 11 candidates. He succeeds Dr. J. H. Odell, told the commission that the suspension of the school girls than demand at the request of the commission, the immediate resignation of the Thurnau ousted chief of police.

Detroit paving costs have taken a turn according to figures quoted by John W. Reid, commissioner of public works on the late contracts for city paving. The average price of low quotations is given as $5.40 a square yard, 25 cents higher than estimates submitted a week previous

The University of Michigan has received an invitation from the Chilean government through the United States bureau of education to send representatives to a continental pedagogical congress to be held in Santiago, Chile, in the summer of 1925.

The Detroit city council has approved the ordinance requiring the vaccination of all dogs against rabies. This action was taken upon request of Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, health commissioner who presented statistics intending to prove that there is a great danger of persons suffering from hydrophobia as a result of being bitten by dogs at this time.

The lives of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Barlond, of Kalamazoo Township, near Charlotte, were saved by a book agent who called at their house, looked in the window and saw the two sitting in their chairs apparently sleeping, and then broke-in and found the two had been overcome by coal gas. They were taken into the air and revived.

Motorists in the vicinity of Carlton, 10 miles north of Monroe, are riding on free gasoline these days. A tank car filled with gasoline derailed and the car was partly upset so that gasoline flowed from it in a steady stream. Residents quickly secured cans, milk cans and other containers and carried it away.

Michigan potato growers lose more than $1,000,000 a year by marketing potatoes of poor quality, according to H. C. Moore, potato specialist for the Michigan Agricultural College Extension Division. "The market demands high quality stock," declared Moore, "and our producers must grow the kind the market wants."

Strictly fresh eggs declined to a record low price for many years in Hillsdale when they were retained in the open market at 19 cents a dozen.

A contract for the construction of the new city hall at Owosso has been awarded to the Henry C. Webster Construction Co., of Bay City. Its bid for the general contract was $82,890.

The economic importance of the lakes-to-the-ocean deep waterway project will be emphasized in one of the numerous educational exhibits to be shown at the Michigan Industrial exposition in Convention hall, Detroit. Co. The new rate is one cent a kilowatt hour lower than that previously Charging that kerosene sold to Mrs. Florence Supiran, of Shiawassee Township, near Owosso, contained a large percentage of gasoline, and that this was responsible for her death, Roy L. Colby, administrator of her estate, has started suit in Circuit Court for $25,000. The defendants are the Johnson Oil & Refining Co., Clifford Spaulding, receiver for the Western Oil & Gas Distributing Co., and Bert Lamb, of Durand. Mrs. Supiran lit a fire in the kitchen stove, and the can of oil a few feet away exploded causing fatal burns.

Five thousand dollars worth of Wayne county road bonds, stolen from the Wayne Savings Bank, have been legally awarded to the brokerage firm of Hornblower & Weeks of Detroit, by a consent decree in circuit court. The bonds were the property of Benjamin Rheam and were in the bank for safe-keeping. Bandits took them. They had been sold and re-sold several times when they came into possession of Hornblower & Weeks. Suit was instituted by the brokers to establish title to the bonds.

A reward of $500, delayed two weeks by the belated delivery of a letter, has been forwarded by the Detroit police department to Louis A. Benken, a St. Louis policeman. Two years ago Benken arrested Marvin Adams, wanted in Detroit for shooting Patrolman Dallas Staffor while resisting arrest. The letter authorizing payment of the reward, mailed in July, 1922, has just shown up.

Diseases now ravaging German children threaten to spread throughout Europe and to this country, according to Senator Royal S. Copeland, former health commissioner of New York, an address in Detroit. He pleads that this country supply food for the children that they can overcome the epidemics resulting from starvation.

Supervisor Verne Woolbury, of Woodburn Township, near Owosso, has trapped the first otter caught in Shiawassee County in 18 years. His father caught the last one before that in 1906. Both otters were trapped on the south branch of Looking Glass River. Mr. Woolbury is still using a boat named by his father 30 years ago.

The city commission of Grand Rapids has granted to eligible male employees two weeks' leave of absence with pay in addition to their usual two weeks vacation, providing they spend the entire time in attendance at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Custer in July, or this announcement Mr. Hurd said the step was necessitated by the frequency with which Federal prisoners overcame the snake when he rushed particularly or the bus drivers in an attempt to save valuable. Abraham Tuckerman, 75 years old, a pioneer farmer, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home near Manton. His wife witnessed the tragedy but was unable to render assistance.

Graft prevention will be a project of which the city commission of Three Rivers will take up with the board of education here in the near future. Dr. J. H. Odell, told the commission that those of the school girls affected with polio, a condition which could be prevented at a cost of $15 annually the doctor said.

Mr. Stone visited the executive office of the state police, the executive office of the state police, and was induced to the administration had no

SHARD information to the majority leaders in the senate and house by the President brought on an agrees of activity in passing vital legislation to ward enactment. In a series of conferences with those leaders he made known his attorney, which was reflected in a statement by Senator Watson of Indiana.

"Now that Attorney General Daugherty has sought to retain Mr. Watson said, "a new situation presents itself in the senate. It seems to me that it is the duty of the Democrats to join with the Republicans to bring the senate back to its legislative function.

It has been regrettable, although unavoidable, the four months of this session with the most constructive legislative program to follow the war have been devoted almost entirely to the endless discussion of personalities involved in the oil leases and alleged misdeeds in public offices.

The senate must devote itself entirely if it hopes to conclude consideration of the legislative program and adjourn by June, which we ought to do. The general prosperity of the country would be aided by Congress enacting its program without delay so business can adjust itself to new conditions called for in new laws."

The senate finance committee worked day and night on the tax reduction bill, on which the leaders of both parties profess to wish speedy action. Early in the week the committee unanimously approved the house provision for a retroactive reduction of 25 per cent in taxes on 1923 incomes paid in 1924, and it is considered certain that the senate will accept this. The taxpayer will pay one-half of the next installment, due June 15, and three-fourths of each of the last two installments. If the tax has been paid in full a refund of one-fourth will be made to the taxpayers. Of course numerous changes in the house bill were made by the committee, mainly for the purpose of raising additional revenues.

Wisconsin's Republican primaries were easily won by Senator LaFollette, whose vote was about

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Harlan Fiske Stone of New York Is Selected to Be Attorney General.

BY EDWARD W. PICKARD.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S selection for the new attorney general to succeed Harry Daugherty may not please the more "progressive" of the western Republicans, but it is likely to gain the approval of the party generally and probably of the country. Harlan Fiske Stone of New York is the man chosen, and in him Coolidge believes he has found what he expected in the man of ability to succeed Harry Daugherty, though he was not quite so progressive as the president.

Stone and the president are lifelong friends and both are graduates from Amherst. For fourteen years Mr. Stone was dean of the Columbia university law school, and he is a director of many corporations, including the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Lines.

He is a big, forceful and able man, and Mr. Coolidge relies on him to give the Department of Justice a thorough housecleaning.

Politics, geography, and factions were disregarded in this choice of a successor, but the Coolidge campaign managers believe that the president's nomination of Mr. Stone will be well received by the public.

AS WAS expected, General Ludendorff was found not guilty of treason in connection with the Munich "beer-cellar" putsch of last November.

The "probers" went right on with their inquiries. The Daugherty committee obtained some evidence from H. M. Peck of Oklahoma City, a former special assistant to the attorney general, supposed to indicate that Daugherty had assisted the Miller brothers of the 101 Ranch in defrauding the Ponca Indians of land and possible fortunes. He will be short. Ludendorff protested the sentences of his comrades. He was greeted with vociferous cheers and will be elected to the Reichstag by the political nationalists known as the German People's Party of Liberty.

FRANCE, which persists in considering Germany the loser in the world war, and insists that Germany should carry out her pledges in the treaty of Versailles, was not unnaturally peeved by a note delivered by her last week in the German government. It was in reply to the demands of the allied council of ambassadors that the allied military control mission be permitted to resume its activities in Germany to check up on these five disarmament promises by Germany:

Treaty laws prohibiting the import and export of war material make recruiting for the army conform to treaty regulations and suppress the illegal general staff, demobilizing all excess officers.

Surrender all documents relative to war material on hand and the production of arm factories at the time of the armistice.

Deliver the balance of war material not authorized by the treaty, especially equipment and uniforms.

Transform factories manufacturing war materials into plants making peace products.

Reorganize the state police (the gendarmerie) into local police forces with the policemen not receiving military instruction and not living together in barracks like soldiers.

Berlin's answer is a refusal to let the gendarmerie continue, unless pledges have been carried out, a statement that the allies and Germany should negotiate an accord covering that, and a proposal that the League of Nations handle future questions concerning the disarmament of Germany in its general dealings with world disarmament.

The note contains a direct challenge to France's right to maintain a large army.

Thomas F. Lane, former legal adviser to the aircraft division of the War Department, testified that his report of reports on aircraft frauds had been taken from his desk and he had been discharged because he was going to appear before the committee.

Captain Voland of the air service admitted taking the papers and said Secretary Weeks had them. Thereupon, Mr. Weeks was subpoenaed and went before the committee Friday to explain his connection with the prosecution of the aircraft graft cases.

Mr. Jennings' sensational story about Jake Hamm and the Reichenbach nomination of 1920 having been shot full of holes, the Teapot Dome committee did not find a great deal to do last week. J. E. Dyche, who was a confidential man for Hamm, said Hamm was not in the habit of giving away his money but was a great "kiddie" and might well have told the stories of huge expenditures when talking to Democrats.

Dyche's evidence, by the way, did not much bolster up the party of Oklahoma politics.

George White, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, was on the stand Wednesday and Saturday. His committee's report has been given to the reparations commission. AFETER an all-night session the British house of commons rejected the policy of a capital levy, which was the chief plank of the Labor party in the recent elections. John Robert Clynes, government leader in the house, admitted the laborites could not hope for the passage of such a measure in the present parliament, but maintained the country would ultimately be forced to it by its crushing burden of debt.

The government's effort to force the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the ground that he is a stockholder in various concerns but Senator Reed of Pennsylvania vigorously defended the secretary and Senator Robinson and other Democrats declined to support Senator McKeon, who led the attack, so it virtually collapsed.

Senator Pitt of Washington then came to bat with a resolution calling for the resignation of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy. This did not seem a very popular move, even with Democrats, and at this writing no action has been taken on it.

Engineer a Good Risk

In spite of the risks incident to their occupation, life insurance statistics show that locomotive engineers live just as long as the average man. The death rate from accident has increased very greatly in recent years, and the engineers have also shared in the general reduction in the death rates from infectious diseases. The engineers' death rate of 82 to 44 per cent, fatal accidents in 1922 were at the rate of 107 per 100,000, as against 318 per 100,000 in 1912. So the expectation of life of a locomotive engineer at the age of twenty-eight is calculated as forty-one years, aside from chances of accident, running a locomotive seems to be a healthful occupation.

STRAIGHT-LINE DAY DRESSES; KNITTED FROCKS FOR GIRLS

NEXT to the tailored suit in importance, rank those simple and indispensable all-day dresses, made of the various crepes, satin crepes and light wools. They are just unpretentious enough to fit in almost anywhere and so cleverly varied as to be endlessly interesting. Their ranks have grown this spring by the addition of silk alpaca to the materials used for them—with barred and striped flannel at one end of the line, satin crepe at the other and alpaca back to hem at one side, where a frill of plaited crepe and a long line of mother-of-pearl sequins in white with white-embroidered bangle collar give it enviable distinction.

Some of these fine spring days little daughter will most likely come rushing into the house, declaring, "It is too warm to wear my coat." Of course one cannot blame any little girl for this burst of enthusiasm for has not all nature cast off the mantle of winter? But what is mother to do?

New Jersey Woman Writes

OPERATIONS FOR FEMALE TROUBLE

Some Are Necessary, Some Are Not These Women Gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Fairview, S. Dakota.—"A year ago I was sick in bed for three weeks and the doctor said I would not be any better without an operation. I had bearing-down pains and sick headaches, with pains in the back of my neck. I felt tired all the time, down-hearted, and got poor and pale and was scarcely able to do anything at all for some time before I took to my bed. The doctor said one of my organs was out of place and caused all my troubles. I was too weak and run-down to think of an operation and as one of my neighbors told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it. I have received great relief from it and recommend it very highly. It cannot be praised too much in cases of female weakness." — Mrs. J. RICH, 322 N. 40th St., Camden, New Jersey.

Through neglect, some female troubles may reach a stage where an operation is necessary—but most of the common ailments are not surgical ones: they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after operations have been advised.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported that they had been benefited by its use. This statement is important to every woman. For sale at drug stores everywhere.

Play Safe
No man can be ignorant of his time
Who is not prudent in the choice of his company—Leroy Taylor.

There are even in the best of regulated spring seasons unwary shifts of cold-and-hail, winds and rains, sunshines and shadow and little girls such a way of catching cold at this time of the year.

With knitted dresses in fashion as charming as is shown in this picture why be in a quandary? Frock of this type knitted of soft woolen yarns are ideal for play and school time. They project, yet are not cumbersome; are "economy" and practical.

The frock here pictured is knitted of red wool with white bandings on the skirt. White braid forms the collar binding and the tie.

This season's knitted outerwear for children is fashioned after the style of their elders. That is, the same sweater models one sees in the knit department for grownups are reproduced in miniature for children. The tuxedo sweater-coat, for instance, and sweater with necktie and color variations look like pocket editions of big sister's very own.

An especially attractive and desirable model in illusory size is knitted of downy brushed wool bordered with plain-stitch, or else with revers of the same. It has long sleeves, tailored pockets and comes especially in camel color, gray or white.

Little Girl's Frock of Red Wool.

The side button style suggesting the jacquette delights the little girl because mother wears one so very like it.

There are slippers for tiny tots with wide borders which show interlocking animal figures and these are aiding joys to childhood not only in the way of comfort, but entertainment as well.

The long straight-knit capes for little girls are especially popular and they come in lovely colors. Surely every wee lass is going to aspire to the ownership of one of these cunning capes this season.

Useful Workbasket

The drudgery of the weekly mending is somewhat offset if one is the possessor of a roomy workbasket of wicker and green leather. The various needles, scissars, etc., are attached to the lid, and in the box itself there is a rod that holds nine spools of thread.

Popular Color

Powder blue, now worn by a number of stage favorites, is popular. With it the discerning woman places a bit of black. One powder blue hat was made striking by little black or trich tips upright around the oval brim, like tiny black pine trees.

"Concrete Around the Home"

Everyone who wants to improve his place or save money around his farm, needs the new Portland Cement Association booklet "Concrete Around the Home."

It tells in everyday language the easiest, simplest and most economical way to use Concrete for making drives, walks, septic tanks, garages and other permanent improvements. Easily followed instructions give you all the details necessary for estimating materials, mixing, placing and finishing the Concrete.

"Concrete Around the Home" is only one of our many booklets available without charge to those interested in using Concrete.

If you are planning any of the money-saving concrete improvements seen everywhere nowadays, such as a permanent floor, basement, or foundation for your buildings, a manure pit, feeding floor, corncrib or silo, we have a booklet on the subject with complete instructions for building it of Concrete.

Remember this service is free. The office below is one of 30 which the Portland Cement Association maintains. This office is your office.

LIVESTOCK
LEGUMES
LIMESTONE MEAN PROFITS IN FARMING

Money-Making Idea Number 20.
Spend two or three evenings with your wife planning a large, well-tilled garden, one acre if you live in the country. Study the seed catalogues and order seeds liberally, including flowers.

Order seed corn and clover seed right now, or you will not be able to get any worth while. Order liberally to sow and plant larger fields than usual, and make a good start on that twenty-five dollars a week that your farm can take in.

Use the money-making idea now—
$25 a week.

Yes sir, I mean just that—twenty-five dollars a week can be taken in each and every week by each and every Crawford County farm on which the husband, wife and children will pull together and also put some good planning and management into their work. Just plain, blundering, thoughtless work won't do it; it takes planning, management, foresight, attention to little details to make a farm a pleasant place to live and prosperous enough to be satisfying, just as much as in running a store, mill or factory.

$25. How Come?

Through a good sized dairy herd, well-culled out, well fed, well stabled, well cared for. Sell the cream or butter from these. Feed the sour milk to 150 to 250 well-culled hens in a plain but clean, light hen-house.

Feed the rest of the skim milk to veal calves, and, particularly to a few good hogs in a snug, clean, warm pig pen. Always 50 or 60 pounds of butter, or 10-gallon can of cream to turn off. Always baskets of eggs, a veal, or a plump, dressed hog to turn off. Always quartets of cottage cheese, sausages, bacon, smoked hams, home-made lard, apples from the sprayed apple trees, cider, vinegar, jelly, fruit, butter, parsnips, horseradish, strawberries, asparagus, rhubarb, sweet corn, early potatoes, peas, to turn off.

Bigger Volume of Business.

Isn't a man asking quite a lot to expect satisfaction and much of a living from twelve or fifteen fat old hens, part of them past the laying age, in a long, cold, filthy coop, and from two or three cows fed a ration of straw, marsh hay and corn stalks, with no grain?

A hotel could not keep up on only two or three boarders. A store could not last on only two or three customers a day. Could a mill pay by sawing one log where it had capacity for ten?

So, too, many Crawford County farms are not doing big enough business so that a living income could, in reason, be expected from the little business turned over, or products turned off.

Let Out the Puckering Strings.

We need bigger corn fields. A man can take good care of a good many acres of corn with two horses and a riding cultivator. More corn, more cows, more income.

More Legumes—Less Timothy.

Legumes suitable here are alfalfa, mammoth clover, sweet clover, soy beans, vetch. They have an extra amount of the feed element called PROTEIN. Protein is what cows must have a lot for they can't give as much milk as their nature would allow.

Timothy is punk stuff for cows. I wouldn't grow it. Grow legumes.

3-7-11.

Calling the feed value of timothy 3, then the feed value of clover is 4, and the feed value of alfalfa is 11.

No Dream. Come Up.

I didn't dream this. It is the feed value as shown in the tables of feed values. Come up to the office and I will show you the tables in Henry's "Feeds and Feedings."

Once Twice.

We cut timothy once; alfalfa twice.

Did you ever hear a farmer regret that he had a field of alfalfa? Be a sport and try a shot at a five-acre field of alfalfa this spring.

There's a big chance that there is a spot on your farm containing enough lime to grow it. I'll help you get the seed that won't kill out here. I'll come out with the soil tester and test your soil to find the spot where it will grow, if you want me to.

Sweet Clover, By All Means.

Sweet clover is a close relative to alfalfa. It's a two-year plant. Seed cheap—lots cheaper than alfalfa. Great stuff for hay for cows or horses. Great pasture. Never bloats. Grows where alfalfa won't. Let me help you get started in this.

Soy Beans Anyway.

A soil so sour (lacking lime) that alfalfa, clover, or sweet clover wouldn't grow knee-high to a grass hopper, and so infertile (poor) that you can scarcely raise a disturbance on it, will grow a nice crop of soy beans.

Soy beans are a legume almost as rich in protein (milk making food substance) as alfalfa. Seed cheap ($3 a bushel). Plant at corn planting time. Cultivate three times. Cut nice crop of rich hay late in August. I got a lot of seed (about 500 lbs.) used here in 1922. Everyone who had soy bean hay said it was great for cows.

Better try five (5) acres of soy beans.

1-1-1.

One acre of carrots. One acre of mangles. One acre of ruts, bagas, then you are all set to feed well next winter and to rake in that $25 a week.

Prune Now.

By the time this reaches you, it will be time to prune fruit trees, shade trees, bush fruits and shrubs.

Don't Make Them Look Like the Devil.

I notice many shade and fruit trees so pruned that there is left a stub or horn from a quarter of an inch to an inch in length. The tree can never heal there; but, the stub will rot away back into the tree giving it a rotten heart, causing it to die or blow over years before its time.

As the devil is said to have horns.

I suggest that trees be not pruned to make them look like the devil.

That Wood Pile.

Snow will soon be gone. We will soon start the teams afresh. We will be busy. Time on the fields will be precious to an energetic farmer. It takes wood to cook our meals. It can't be very pleasant to hear, just as you go out to hitch up in the morning "Now Henry, I haven't got any wood. Don't you dare go off and leave me without wood." It must be about as pleasant to have to drop the lines and take the old axe and pound off a few sticks as it is for a dog to have a tin can tied to its tail. But, the farmer who has not provided a good pile of dry wood, sufficient for months ahead, deserves what he gets.

I can think of some Crawford County farms that have splendid long piles of dry wood. Why not all?

Early Potatoes.

Those farmers who plant an acre of very early potatoes will have something to bring in a little change at the right time. I know where there are 90 bushels of early seed at one dollar a bushel. I have samples in my office. Plant a quarter acre extra early, a month earlier than usual. Ten days later, plant another quarter acre. Ten days later, plant the rest of the acre.

Should the first quarter be threatened with frost, set the blades of the cultivator to throw dirt outwards. Turn up and down the rows and throw a little dirt over the young plants.

Soak seed thirty minutes in four ounces corrosive sublimate dissolved in 30 gallons of water.

There's money in this.

Try a shot at an acre of extra early potatoes.

You can't lose. It will be a start or on that $25 a week that you can make your farm bring you.

Bravette.

A new material, bravette, is used by a German inventor in the manufacture of safety razors. It looks like Ivory, tortoise shell or marble, depending on the number in which it is manufactured. The advantage of this material lies in the fact that the apparatus cannot rust. There is no need to dry the razor after use, it is sufficient to rinse it. Another advantage is that it is cheaper than razors made of metal.
